ASTRO ML Competition Non-Disclosure and IP Agreement

Participants in the ASTRO Lab ML Competition grant the ASTRO Lab (Texas A&M University) non-exclusive rights to any algorithms, source code, libraries, documentation, and submission content as part of the competition, and for any application for the purposes of research, development or commercial use. Participants agree to utilize information and data sets provided by the ASTRO Lab for the purposes of this competition for the sole purpose of the competition itself, and not to post, share, or distribute such information or data with anyone outside of their respective teams. Participants have the right to keep their own code and use it for other research-only purposes. Publication of algorithms or intellectual property generated as part of this competition must include the ASTRO Lab (Texas A&M University) and be reviewed and approved by the ASTRO Lab in advance of publication.
